Pinpoint Labs and Altumatim Launch New Technology Partnership

Description

Pinpoint Labs and Altumatim have announced a new integration partnership that connects Pinpointâ??s CrossCopy Enterprise platform with altumatimOS, delivering a more streamlined and intelligent workflow for eDiscovery and digital investigations.

The integration allows legal and forensic professionals to securely collect, preserve, and transfer data from endpoints, mobile devices, and cloud repositories directly into altumatimOS for immediate AI-assisted analysis. By uniting Pinpointâ??s proven forensic collection technology with Altumatimâ??s narrative-based artificial intelligence, the collaboration enhances speed, accuracy, and defensibility across the entire discovery lifecycle.

â??In legal proceedings, whoever tells the best story wins,â?• said David Gaskey, CEO of Altumatim. â??altumatimOS does more than just analyze information; it understands narratives and connects dots that humans might miss. Through this integration, altumatimOS receives defensible data seamlessly from CrossCopy Enterprise, allowing legal teams to focus on building compelling cases and uncovering what truly matters.â?•

The integration introduces several technical advantages:

- Seamless workflow: Data collected via CrossCopy Enterprise is automatically ingested into altumatimOS, eliminating the need for manual exports or conversions.
- End-to-end defensibility: Chain of custody, metadata, and audit logs remain intact throughout the process.
- Scalability and flexibility: Supports cloud, mobile, and enterprise data sources for investigations of any size or complexity.
- Human + AI intelligence: Altumatimâ??s contextual AI complements forensic expertise to surface insights faster and with greater accuracy.

â??This partnership highlights the shared vision of both companies to advance digital forensics and eDiscovery,â?• said Jon Rowe, CEO of Pinpoint Labs. â??With CrossCopy Enterprise acting as a cloud-native, cross-platform collection engine, data from virtually any device or source can move seamlessly into altumatimOS for analysis.â?•

Together, Pinpoint Labs and Altumatim are bridging the gap between data collection and comprehension, empowering legal teams to make defensible, data-driven decisions faster.
